

Computer Services

Operating System Configuration

- When your operating system has been corrupted or needs to be set up to run on a different environment.

Power Supply Installation

- Upgrade of your power input to be able to support additional peripherals or just need to replace a defective power source.

CDRW / DVDRW Installation

- Need a new optical drive in order to have the capability to back up data information on a media source.

Processor Installation

- When you need an upgrade in processor capability or require a more energy efficient processing unit.

Expansion Card Installation

- For a quick video, network, sound or other expansion card upgrade or installation.

Router, Hub, Switch or Access Point Installation

- Planning to set up a secure network infrastructure or need an upgrade for your current network setup.

Hard Drive Installation

- Need to increase your data storage capacity or replace a non functional hard drive.

Hard Drive Installation RAID or SCSI

- Need to increase your data capacity with a more efficient or more productive disk storage device.

Modem or Network Card Installation

- An absolute requirement in order to upgrade your network or implement a new configuration.

Motherboard Installation

- Upgrade your motherboard in order to support a more powerful CPU and any additional required peripherals.

Memory Installation

- In order to support those business applications that require sufficiently more primary memory.

Network Printer or Scanner Installation

- In order to support those business applications that require sufficiently more primary memory.

Local Printer or Scanner Installation

- For a quick and efficient installation of a local workstation printer or a group printer accessible over a local network.

Notebook Repair

- When your computer mobility down time needs to be minimized in order to repair or upgrade your system.